

Call for Applications

Deadline February 27, 2019

EUPRERA (European Public Relations Education and Research Association) has run the Master Thesis Award competition since 1995. EUPRERA wants to honour and reward masters theses (MSc, MA and MPhil) in any language that make a significant professional/practical or academic contribution to the field of public relations in Europe.

Aim

The award is a celebration of the PR academia and of the role performed by European Higher Education Institutions in the evolution of knowledge of this field.

Rewards

There are up to two categories of thesis awarded each year. The winner of each category will receive a certificate and they will also be invited to present their thesis at the EUPRERA Annual Congress, the main gathering for public relations scholars in Europe. Travel expenses and accommodation will be paid (up to € 500 for each winner).

The supervisors of the winning theses will receive an "Honours Diploma". Winners, supervisors and their universities will be featured on the EUPRERA website for one year, linked directly to the university's website.

Shortlisted applicants, their supervisors and their universities will be featured on the website during the pre-announcement period. All nominees will receive a "Merit Diploma".

Conditions

- All theses in any language that research problems within the PR academic field and that contribute to the consolidation and/or evolution of the public relations body of knowledge will be eligible for entry.
- All eligible theses should have been assessed and classified by the university of origin up to 13 months before the date of submission of the abstract to the jury and never have been a candidate to this same award.
- The theses, at the time of application, must be accompanied either by a statement from the supervisor of the applicant, jury or other body of the university of origin, indicating the date of completion and/or assessment.
- The award may comprise two categories*:
 - Practical Impact Award

Theses following an applied research approach in which research is undertaken to solve practical problems rather than to acquire knowledge for knowledge sake.

- Theoretical Impact Award

Theses following a basic experimental research approach, and theoretical work undertaken to acquire new knowledge without looking for long-term benefits other than the advancement of knowledge.

*The jury reserves the right to vary the award categories according to applications received.

Requirements

The applicant will complete an application form and submit this with their thesis abstract and supervisor statement (see details in "Procedure").

Jury

There are two bodies involved in the procedure:

- The Abstract Committee: responsible for analysing the submitted abstracts, it will be composed of 3-5 academics from universities across Europe; each submission will be evaluated by at least 3 members of the committee; each submission shall have a clearance from at least 2/3 of the committee members assessing it.
- The Jury: will be composed of a selected number of members from universities across Europe.

The manuscripts are to be submitted to double blind review by two independent jurors. The composition of the jury is to be known only by the Board of EUPRERA to ensure independence.

Procedure

1. Candidates should submit to the chair of the jury:
 - a. A 400/500-word abstract of their thesis in English, using the template file available on the EUPRERA website and including:
 - Title
 - Purpose (research objectives and questions)
 - Theoretical context and scope of the research
 - Design/methodology/approach
 - Main findings
 - Implications and outcomes for theory and/or practice
 - Originality/value
 - References
 - b. The fully completed registration form (available from the EUPRERA website)
 - c. A statement from the supervisor, jury or other body of the university of origin, indicating the date of completion and/or assessment.
2. The committee will consider the general quality and eligibility of the abstract (topic within the PR field).
3. Accepted applicants will be asked to submit within one month:
 - a. A 10-page summary of the thesis in English (an expanded abstract), using the template file available on the EUPRERA website.
 - b. A copy of the original thesis.
4. Each thesis submitted to the chair of the jury will be blind reviewed by two jurors following a common criteria list (to be distributed by the coordinator). The jurors, using this common criteria list, will score each entry and produce a two paragraph statement.
5. Scores are averaged and the winner determined.

6. The results are communicated to the EUPRERA Board and every applicant is contacted either to inform them they whether they have made the shortlist. The shortlist as well as the winner(s) are announced.

Timeframe and deadline

The timeframe will be structured as follows:

- February 27, 2019: Deadline for submission of abstracts and formal documentation.
- March 30: Abstracts assessment finished. Communication of the results to the authors of the accepted abstracts.
- May 1: Submission of 10-page summary, other formal documents and original theses.
- August 5: Results of the jury and presentation of the results to the Board.
- August 15: Feedback to the applicants and information on their inclusion in the shortlist. Publication of the shortlist on the website.
- August 15 or at least 1 month before the congress: Winner is informed and travel arrangements are made.

About EUPRERA

The European Public Relations Education and Research Association (EUPRERA) is an independent organization that aims at stimulating and promoting innovative knowledge and practices of strategic communication, organizational communication and public relations across Europe. Founded in 1959 and previously named CERP Education & Research, EUPRERA is a network with nearly 500 members from 40 countries where academics and professionals attract, convey, disseminate and create innovations in the field. Several cross-national and comparative research and education projects are organized by members and affiliated universities. In order to spread new methodologies and research results, EUPRERA organizes a highly regarded Annual Congress, every year held in collaboration with a selected university or college in Europe.
